THE LOOPHOLES IN CHILD LABOUR LAWS IN INDIA

*VAISHNAVI AIYER

With passage of time and constant rise in the poverty rate, more and more children are resorting to quitting school for menial work in the industrial sector. Although the Parliament of India has enacted various laws in an attempt to curtail this problem, these laws are full of lacunas and loopholes which are taken advantage of by the employers. Poverty and lack of awareness push these young innocent minds away from school and into the rat race of employment. My Research Paper aims to point out precisely where and what the child labour laws in India lack and strives to give suggestions to deal with the same.
